1. Please comment on the strong and weak points of instruction: Evaluation #2

Strong points:
- Well organized syllabus with topics broadly relevant for economics PhD students in all subfields. It was obvious that Anna put a lot of thought into what topics to include in the course.
- Highly detailed notes that will serve as a valuable reference after the course is over.
- Anna was very approachable and knowledgeable when asked questions.
Weak points:
- Some of the in-class exercises were a bit long/difficult to complete on the spot which could make class slightly stressful.

2. Please comment on specific knowledge, skills, etc. acquired, new/appreciation of/outlook on previous knowledge:

My coding skills have definitely improved and the course also clarified my understanding of a few fundamental concepts. I am also confident that I can apply my knowledge to my own future research.

3. Please comment on clarity and organization of course, and / student/instructor interaction :

Course requirements were extremely clear, and Anna was a great instructor!

4. Please comment on the amount and type of thinking you did, / usefulness of readings and assignments:

The course wasn't overly difficult but the topics and assignments were thought-provoking and useful.

    the notes were super through. Also although I wasn't able to get all of github working being introduced to a systematic way to do version control was really neat!

4. Please comment on the amount and type of thinking you did, / usefulness of readings and assignments:

    Most of the assignments were really helpful in developing the skills we talked about in lecture. Minus the map stuff I feel like I would use everything I learned in the course at some point in my research.
